Q1 - What is the aim of your policy or new service?

This policy has been produced to ensure the Council provides a safe working environment and ensure the safety and wellbeing of all its' employees. The council seeks to ensure that employees do not exceed reasonable working hours to provide for a satisfactory balance between work and personal life and it is also committed to ensuring that employees' health is not compromised by the workplace.

Q2 - Who is the policy or service going to benefit?

Managers have a responsibility to ensure that working hours are kept within reasonable limits and will monitor working hours for this purpose.

Employees themselves also have a duty to ensure that they are not working excessive hours and to inform their manager directly if they consider that they may be doing so.

Under the Working Time Regulations 1998, employees cannot lawfully be required to work more than an average of 48 hours per week, which includes overtime, calculated over a reference period. Employees may, however, agree to work more than an average of 48 hours per week, so long as they do so voluntarily and the agreement is in writing.
